Transportation Facilities Given Severe Setback

Athabasca River Only Eight Inches Deep In Places - Company Forced To Leave Its Boats Several Miles From McMurray

Water conditions in river transport arteries to the northern mining areas and the Arctic are the worst in the history of northern navigation, according to A. M. Matt Berry, manager of the Northern Transportation Company, who has just returned to the city after supervising the winding up of the company's operations.

NEW HIGHWAY PLANNED FOR NORTH POINTS

Will Connect Waterways, McMurray, Willow Lake, Scaplane Base

The provincial government is now localizing a high-level highway between McMurray and Willow Lake, Premier Aberhart announced Tuesday. This highway will lead to Willow Lake, which provides an excellent scaplane base, which can be used for the greater part of the year under all conditions.

The premier said: "Arrangements are under way by which thousands of tons of freight will be carried into the north country over winter roads this year. In previous years freight into the north ceased with the closing of navigation except by airplane."

WINTER TRAVEL: "Last winter trial trips were made to demonstrate the feasibility of winter travel. They were successful but these have been more or less overdone to such an extent that it is now

FOSTER WILL MOVE SPEECH FROM THRONE

J. M. Popil, Sturgeon, to Second Motion At Special Session

E. F. Foster, M.L.A. for Didsbury, will move the motion to adopt the speech from the Throne at the special session of the legislature, opening on Tuesday next, Premier Aberhart announced Tuesday. The motion will be seconded by J. M. Popil, M.L.A. for Sturgeon.

Asked regarding the legislative program for the session, the premier declared that the main purpose of the session would be to deal with oil gas conservation legislation for the Turner Valley.

SCHOOL ACT: In addition, the premier said that there might be a few amending bills, including one to the School Act.

It might be that a bill will be introduced validating the Order-in-Council establishing the government's interim program now under way which includes extension of the province's branch in various parts of the province.

CAUCUS: The session will be preceded by a caucus of Social Credit members on Monday next.

C. M. Tade, member-elect for Athabasca will not be able to take his seat as the required time making a declaration of interest and filing of protests will not have expired.

SOUTH FARMER DIES IN ROW WITH TWO SONS

LETHBRIDGE, Nov. 8. - Hugh Stewart of Kimball, near Carleton Place, died following an altercation with his son in the Stewart farm yard late on Monday, according to reports from the police station. The father attempted to strike his son, Samuel, with an iron bar. Another son intervened and the father before the law.

The father fell to the ground, striking his head on a pig trough. The son carried him to the house where he died. Inquest was adjourned until Tuesday night. No arrests have been made.

Government Retains Hold On Provincial Seat At Athabasca

By-Election In North Won By C. H. Tade

Liberals Make Substantial Gain in North, L.F. Fail To Win Seat - Tade Leads 1,687 to 1,438.

In the closest, most hotly-contested election campaign in the history of the Athabasca provincial constituency, C. H. Tade, Colinton farmer, retained for the Social Credit forces the legislative seat representative of the constituency, when he defeated by a close margin C. J. Rayner Whiteley, Liberal, in the by-election of Monday. The by-election was made necessary by the death of Charles C. Ross, former minister of lands and mines, who died of a heart attack on Oct. 21.

With 29 out of 44 polls heard from Mr. Tade polled 1,680 votes and Mr. Whiteley 1,438. From the time the first few polls were heard from it was obvious that the race would be close. Mr. Whiteley led in the early stages as the Athabasca town and Fort Chipewyan polls gave him a lead.

Premier Sees Endorsement Of Policies

Result Of Athabasca By-Election Gives Government Encouragement

Declaring that in these days the people want relief from high interest rates and freedom from the grip of the money lender, Premier William Aberhart on Monday declared that the result of the Athabasca provincial constituency by-election would give the government encouragement to "continue to advance to the goal of increased purchasing power for all, with economic freedom and with a fair amount of debt cancellation."

"The election of Mr. Tade is not only a great personal triumph for him, but it also is an endorsement of the present government policy," the premier declared.

Athabasca

The by-election in Athabasca was a hard-fought battle. The Government spared no pains to hold the seat, the Liberals made every effort to win it. While the outcome could make little difference in the standing in the legislature, the contest was recognized to be a test as to whether the Government support in rural districts was on the wane. It was the first occasion on which a by-election has been necessary in a rural constituency where the Social Credit candidate won three years ago. In the circumstances there could be no alibi. If the Government candidate was defeated the administration would sustain a heavy blow to its prestige. If the Liberal candidate polled a poor vote, the conclusion must be that the Government's strength in rural ridings had not been seriously impaired, if at all.

The Government nominee won again, as he did three years ago, but by a heavily reduced majority. The reduction is to be explained by the fact that he had only one opponent this time as against two on the former occasion. The result in fact would be reasonably close at any time and was decidedly close if compared with the majority of three years ago.

If Athabasca is a typical rural constituency, the conclusion is that the Government has lost ground among the farming population.

Maybe We Could Finesse

The one advantage gained by the city through the Fortin debt-extending plan is the permission to buy its own bonds and cancel them whenever there is money that can be spared for the purpose. This advantage has as yet been mainly theoretical, because the 54-year minimum tax rate does not permit more than is required to meet debt charges, pay running expenses and do a very modest amount of street and other improvement work. The only buying-in has been done by the sinking fund bond, and the extent to which it can retire bonds is very limited. But it might be possible for next year's council to do some refunding on a small scale by indirect procedure. It is to be supposed there will be something available from revenue to carry out improvements, as there was this year. The Dominion offers to lend money to municipalities for revenue-producing improvements at 2 per cent interest. Where it is proposed to spend tax money in improvements of this type, it might be worth while to use it instead to buy bonds and cancel them and borrow the corresponding sum from the Dominion at 2 per cent. It is not likely any large amount of refinancing could be done by this method, but the reduction from the ruinous interest rates of 4 1/2, 5, 6 and 7 per cent now being paid would be large enough to warrant the plan being studied in relation to contemplated improvements of this character.

The one hope Edmonton—and other cities which have been tied up in Mr. Fortin's scheme—have of doing any considerable buying and cancelling of bonds lies in the chance of getting money for this purpose from the Dominion by way of loans at lower rates of interest. No opportunity to do this should be overlooked.

The Housing Plebiscite

This city needs more homes. That fact must be apparent to everyone. Since 1929 the population has grown by 16,000 and only some 1300 dwellings have been built. It is a modest estimate, therefore, to say that at least 1500 homes are required to take care of the acute housing problem now facing Edmonton. Taxpayers can begin redressing the situation in a constructive way, by endorsing the housing plebiscite on election day, Wednesday.

They will be asked to approve of two proposals. The first concerns itself with aiding tenants by the construction, at no expense to taxpayers, of low-cost homes for rental purposes. The second relates to the provision of municipal funds for citizens anxious to build homes. Both should be supported by burgesses.

Under the generous terms of the Dominion Housing Act, 90 per cent of all the money needed to build the low-rental homes is to be loaned by the federal government at two per cent interest. The other ten per cent will be met by having the city make some of the lots it now owns available for housing built under this project. The suggested $250,000 maximum program will enable Edmonton to build about 100 homes and as the plan progresses more will doubtless be erected to fill the great demand.

Not one cent will fall on the taxpayer. On the contrary, his tax burdens will be eased since ratification of the housing plebiscite will convert land now useless to the city into a source of new revenue and increase the number of votes bearing the weight of taxable assessments.

These are the direct benefits that will flow from having Edmonton embrace the opportunity now presented to it of carrying out a vigorous housing program. Equally beneficial in their stimulus to civic prosperity and well-being will be the boon to all phases of the construction industry and enlarged labor opportunities such a program will provide.

Self-interest should join with civic pride in urging taxpayers to ratify the housing plebiscite by an emphatic majority. Edmonton definitely needs it, and this approval will be a boon to them as well as a blessing to the entire city. Taxpayers cannot do a better day's business as citizens than by endorsing the plebiscite.

Editorial Notes

A couple of Italy's new fast warships are to be on a cruise around the world. This may be more important than it sounds. It does, it may be inferred, does not intend to start any fresh trouble until they get back.

The Fushier's chief of staff has quit, allegedly because he did not believe Germany was capable of withstanding France, Britain and Russia had they refused to assent to the butchery of the Czech republic. Perhaps Herr Hitler was also doing some bluffing at Godesberg and Munich?

Nickel production in Canada during 1937 reached a new all-time high mark. Largely no doubt because the nations are armed, but also because the metal is being used more extensively in industrial production. Since Canada holds a near monopoly of the supply, this branch of the national mining business grows in nearly the same proportion as the growth of world demand.

It is hard to believe British political observers really expect, as their forecasts indicate, that the Labor party will join the ranks of its supporters to nationalize the national government. It is significant that the papers urging such action are militant Tory organs, which base their plea upon the strain and stress to which Britain is exposed. But was not the Munich pact to clear the sky of clouds and bring in the era of peace and tranquility?

In stating the reasons why the Privy Council ruled Alberta's bank taxation to be bad law, Lord Maughan says the legislation was plainly prohibitive since if the other provinces applied similar legislation the banks would be put out of business. If it performed no other useful function, the Judicial Committee would be a worth while institution because the Law Lords seem to be able to find their way through a jungle of legalistic contentions and sum the matter in words that mean something even to a layman.

Fifty Years Ago

From the Files of The Edmonton Bulletin

With this issue The Bulletin enters upon its tenth volume and ninth year of publication. Great changes have taken place in the North West in that eventful period, and not least among the pleasant memories of this paper is that it has taken an unwelcome part in chronicling the course of these developments. The messages of congratulations received from many points are most appreciated.

Forty Years Ago

W. T. Loveck of the Hudson's Bay Company went to Lac la Poudre.

W. A. Crichton had been appointed inspector of hides and brands for North West Territories. South Edmonton public school has 210 pupils on roll.

Wheat is worth 91 cents a bushel, oats 20 to 22 cents.

D. Evans has sold his flour, feed and grocery business to Mr. McInnes.

Thirty Years Ago

The first inter-municipal street railway has been made up and published. The cars will begin regular operations in a few days. The new gas producer plant at the power house is ready for use.

The International Heating and Lighting Co. are seeking a renewal of their franchise.

Twenty Years Ago

London: The German armistice delegation has reached the Allied line. The delegates will be received by Marshall Foch. Over all the world great relief is manifest that the armistice is at hand, but in the chancelleries of Europe it is not so. The end of the war has been lost or forgotten in the heat of the victory.

Ten Years Ago

Paris: The Poincare cabinet has resigned.

Washington: Herbert Hoover was chosen as the president of the United States, securing 444 votes in the electoral college, against 17 for his Democratic opponent, Al. Smith. The latter carried only eight states.

Current Comment

"Backed by Military Strength"

It seems plain to the commonsense observer in future policy if a "general settlement" is to have any sort of stability. First of all, we must assume that the nations which are unable to carry out in practice—and this means that our agreements must be backed by military strength. In the world as it now exists, no alliance or understanding can have any real value unless that condition is fulfilled. Secondly, we must make no concessions unless we obtain a sufficient return in the way of a "general settlement" which satisfied every possible German grievance would be worse than unless it did not bring with it not merely a promise of peace but a new international system capable of enforcing peace, reducing the burden of armaments, and permitting ourselves and our neighbors to live in freedom unaccustomed to our own political lights—Glasgow Herald.

Two-Year-Old Jitters

Ottawa recalls that during the last crisis the heads of our defense organization were suffering a severe attack of the "jitters." The realization that Canada was in a position of attack on either Canada was "not imagination but grim possibility" was forced on government and military heads alike.

Neither the government nor the military leaders, however, are responsible for these justified "jitters." They are a two-year-old affair. The complicated defense requirements of modern war are not to be grasped in a day or the work of years. To have been ready to meet last month's defense requirements we would have had to wait until 1936.

The Ottawa despatch says that the result of the "jitters" was less opposition to larger defense votes in the next parliamentary session. It is to be hoped this is true, and that one warning will be enough.

We hope and try to believe that a lasting peace will be the course of events. But who knows in these days of uncertainty and change the situation will be two years from now? We have to look ahead—Vancouver Sun.

Wooden Wool

Much wool being substituted for sheep's wool in the clothing going on the backs of people in totalitarian countries is a question of wool substitutes. This huge increase in the use of synthetic wool alarms the wool-growers of the world, for it means some countries are now producing more wool than the world's wool supply.

The Wool Board of Australia is openly alarmed by this growing use of substitutes in the totalitarian countries, which, having no wool of their own, are buying the world's wool supply. The problem is thought capable of solution by the Australian Board only by lowering wool values sufficiently to discourage the artificial recourse to synthetic substitutes.

—Winnipeg Free Press.

The Nationalist Allies

For some time The Journal, organ of Hon. Maurice Dupou, accredited leader of the Dominion Conservative Party in this district, has been campaigning to stir up public opinion against any participation by Canada in the wars of Britain. Quite recently, Mr. George Hepp, M.P., for the Conservative Party in the district of Montreal, has visited Winnipeg and has there delivered a provocative address complaining of the position of his compatriots within the British Empire. And he has, in the process, hailed this proclamation with enthusiastic approval.

The Conservative-Nationalists realize that they can accomplish nothing by professing allegiance to Conservatism, as long as the Conservative party remains in opposition. It is in opposition that the Conservative Party can remain as long as they flatter their nationalistic views in the faces of their fellow-Canadians. They will do better to turn their backs on the Conservative party and join the ranks of those who hold similar views and the Conservative party will be infinitely relieved without their aid. They will learn of their own accord or else abandon a membership for which they are not qualified, in fact, the Conservative party will be faced with the unpleasant but salutary task of re-organizing itself. What is to be done, it cannot be done too quickly! —Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph (Conservative).

Canadian Mining in 1938

Canada in 1938 will produce, in volume, more metals and minerals than in any year of the Dominion's history. This is because the value of mine output will exceed $425,000,000 this year. This is not an all-time record, falling 10 per cent short of the $467,000,000 figure of 1937. But the fact that the production of 1938 is not an unprecedented level. The production for decline in 1938 value in the prices of copper, lead and zinc, and silver, has been far below the more normal average of 1937. The prospect is for rising prices for these metals, for an increased production of copper, lead, silver, zinc, nickel, lead, zinc, platinum, metals, silver, construction minerals and the rare metals.

The year 1939 should witness a return to the steeply climbing graph of the past four years. It will not be astonishing to see Canada pass the half-billion dollar mark in the value of her mine output right away in 1939. In 1937 it gained $60,000,000 in one jump.

Canada is now the second largest gold producer in the world, with an output, at July rate, of over 5,000,000 ounces annually. This ranking places the Dominion ahead of United States, and lacking any definite knowledge of what Russia is doing, alone that mysterious country.

Canada leads the world in nickel, platinum and radium production. It is second in gold, lead and silver. It is third in copper, zinc and silver. Canada has the largest output per capita of base metals of any country. It is the premier Empire supplier of the non-ferrous metals essential to war and peace—Northern Miner.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

This is the day when the people of California go to the polls to vote—among other matters—on whether they want "80 every Thursday" in demurrage script, for all unemployed persons over the age of fifty. Fear of the publicists carrying has a good many people worried. A reader from Loyminster, Mr. H. W. Lee, writes: "I have taken a look at the '80 every Thursday' script. I have written a letter to the California script company, telling them that I would not take it. I told them that I would not take it because it would not be worth the paper it was written on."

I hope I may be wrong, and that the scrip scheme will bring all the benefits claimed for it. I am sure how the pensioners who get his scrip for nothing can benefit, if he can get anyone to give him goods or services in exchange. I'd like all the scrip that anyone will give me for nothing. But the banks are different. It takes scrip from a customer it must credit him with the face value of the scrip, and give him time to draw back money against it. After a year or so, the scrip for the scrip it must still pay $104 interest in stamps if it holds it for a year.

What Is Your Opinion?

A great many interesting letters received by the Editor of The Bulletin are too long for publication. But some are so good that we do well to study briefly. A limit of 350 words must be insisted on.

Let the People Decide

Editor, Bulletin: Let me suggest an equitable solution to the serious railway problem which is now confronting the country to the benefit of everyone.

On This Date

It is not given to many men to die on the same date of the year as that upon which they were born. That was, however, the luck of John M. Johnson, the New Brunswick statesman, who died on Nov. 8, 1818. He died at Ottawa Nov. 8, 1818. During his brief life he had won a reputation as a statesman, soldier and statesman.

Dictatorships Vs. Democracies

Editor, Bulletin: Mr. Winston Churchill's recent radio address of October 29th, in which he made appeal to the democracies, including the United States, to prepare for the coming of the day when we do not intend to take it sitting down.

Religion Day By Day

LIFE IS TO BE USED

Thirteen years ago, in Cayton, we bought a number of ebony elephants, of assorted sizes, as mementoes and ornaments for our home. But our children, who were then of the age of three or four, were so fond of them that they scattered over the floor as playthings of the children.

Chamberlain

Editor, Bulletin: It makes me sick when I read a statement: "The great G. D. H. Cole, a little man, John R. D. Gray, a little man, as any man who has done a great and noble thing has, but he is the best-loved man in the world, today because he saved them from the clutches of the enemy."

Sunshine Shafts

"A good servant has lately." Knows how to break things gently.

Child (as Customs official) going through mother's baggage: "Oh, what a lovely little box, but mother!"

Guard: "What are you doing here?"

Suspicious Character: "A fortnight ago I saw a trunk full of clothes, and now I am trying to find out what it is, so that I can see if it is mine."

Mr. Johnson: "Doctor, what can I do to reduce?"

Doctor: "The proper kind of exercise."

Mrs. Johnson: "What do you recommend?"

Doctor: "Try pushing yourself away from the table twice a day."

DOROTHY DIX Says:

DEAR MISS DIX—Which is the better plan of regarding marriage? The old-fashioned unit-death-do-u-part, or the modern try-it-and-see-if-you-like-it plan? My friend says that if you look on marriage as an inevitable contract that you can't break, you try to make the best of your bargain. You make an effort to get along with your husband or wife, and if you quarrel you patch it up. But if you regard marriage as a temporary convenience you are always looking for faults and wondering if you wouldn't be better off married to someone else, or not married at all. My point of view is that marriage should endure only so long as a couple get along together. If it would make the husband and wife try harder to please the other one if he or she knew that the love would last longer if it were free and not bound. What do you think? DOROTHY DIX

Raising A Family

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Suppose you had a job that you hated. Suppose you not only hated it, but couldn't do it very well. At the store or office your boss reminded you of it every day, and at home the family nag after you for failure.

If you could only lose your job it would be a relief of sorts, but then it is, stretching away into the dark years, and secretly you know you'll never be any better and there will be no release.

Just how long O. R. Barton I am curious to know. You say you would your career last? You say you would your career last? You say you would your career last?

Children aren't fair, of course. They have an adaptability we adults lack; besides they don't take their careers too seriously. And there can be no parallel between earning and working for a mere ideal, which is what school is. School and education are vague things in a child. In spite of his natural curiosity to learn facts, he wonders why it is necessary to study decision and perceiving.

I have said and believe that the father of children accept school fairly well, but this is because they prefer occupation to a vacuum, and find some satisfaction in a regular schedule.

Yet there is our great army of unhappy ones, who are not getting along. What the work entirely does and finally become listlessly indifferent to their fate. They feel that they are no good anyway, so why study? Then, to flatter them more completely, we talk about the great advantages they don't appreciate.

TRY TO AROUSE INTEREST Here is an idea, however. Sometimes a best who has lost his grip on school, will pick up his senses if he is interested in a subject rather than in a subject. Instead of nagging at him, we might try another way—that is, to let him see the side of the fence instead of shouting over the side. We could take his books and read what his subject is, and put them in a new light. By a little talking, reading from representative books and demonstrating a little there are so many interesting and informative books in the library today with facts hidden under the veil that he might get a new slant on "Learning." Moreover, it isn't long. And eventually, want to learn more. His appetite never needs a pump.

Let us help the boy who hates school.

Debunker

It is because people nowadays marry with one eye on the altar and the other on the divorce court that so many marriages are failures. When men and women marry with a determination to stay together, no matter what happens, they make successes of their marriages because they know that harmony with their mate is a life-and-death matter to them.

VICTIMS OF HYDROPHOBIA ARE NOT AFRAID OF WATER

Although the name "hydrophobia" means "fear of water," there is little evidence that either animal or human beings suffering from this disease have any such fears.

Medical authorities on this disease, called rabies, say that mad dogs drink water just as other dogs do, and that human beings with this disease likewise do not have a dislike for water.

Fruits and Vegetables Trim The Ham Cheaply

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX Ham prices have leaped to the point that we can do something about it. Use a little less ham and a little more of cheaper foods to gather. The result—ham on the back, and still some money in the bank.

HAM AND CORN PUDDING (14 to 6 servings)

Two cups corn canned, one to cup whole milk, 1 cup chopped green pepper, 1 cup chopped onion, salt and pepper to taste, 2 eggs.

Mix corn, ham, peppers together and add milk, salt and pepper. Bake in a buttered casserole and turn in corn and ham mixture into egg mixture and combine thoroughly. Season. Green pepper and turn in corn and ham mixture. Bake in hot oven 400 degrees F. for about 35 minutes. Until firm to touch.

Yes, it cheap while ham is high.

HAM AND FRUIT OVEN GRILL (14 servings)

Four orange slices, 1 inch thick, 4 grapefruit halves, 4 individual pieces ham steak.

Place on breaded oven broiler rack. Broil bananas with melted butter. Salt bananas and tomatoes. Broil for about 10 to 12 minutes with rack 4 inches under moderately high flame. Turn once. Serve on half water. Season with salt and pepper. Garnish with parsley, stuffed olives and lemon quarters.

Mayor Asserts Government Prevented Loan To City

30th Anniversary For Tram Service Is Marked Tuesday

Now a $3,000,000 industry, employing 260 men, the Edmonton street railway on Tuesday celebrates its thirtieth anniversary. At the same time ends a year marked by a small operating surplus made with operation at the lowest fares in Canada.

On this November day in 1908 Mayor Armstrong officially inaugurated a street railway system that operated six cars on 12 miles of track. Only two cars were on the rails for the opening but the other four were on order and arrived some as conductor.

Since the first motorcar upon the first switch that gave Edmonton urban transportation, the system has expanded until it now operates 75 street cars on 51 miles of track and runs three motor buses on spur lines.

The system maintains its own repair and service shops and has kept its equipment in such fine shape that a number of the original cars are still running. There in operation are Numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, white motorcars, and 7 have been converted to the frame, trucks and motor of No. 7 recently were put to use to haul a "gondola car" to smooth the rails.

In the summers, the city ran an observation car for sight-seeing, from 1913 to 1922, but ran this car into the barn when it appeared most people had seen Edmonton.

MAKES PROGRESS

Feeling the development of the street railway system, the career of Sup. Thomas Ferrer, who entered the service in 1908, then an inspector and was given his present post in 1918. Three others who were in the street railway service in 1908 are still on the job, W. J. Brunelle, line and track foreman, Peter Fleming, inspector and George A. Berry, motorman.

BUS SERVICE

The city changed from two-man cars to one-man cars in 1917. In recent years it added bus service to the University and Main streets, from 124 to 146 streets. New innovation is to be track-laying buses, which will be placed in service next year on the north side, to the north side over the low level bridge and McDougall hill.

Session May Make Appropriation On Telephone Service

At the coming parliamentary session, money probably will be appropriated to install a telephone exchange to the northland, according to James A. MacKinnon, M.P. for West Edmonton. Over the week-end Mr. MacKinnon conferred by telephone with E. A. Skelton, McMurtry merchant and president of the Liberal Association. Several conversations have been held with the north and experiments have been under way for sometime by the Royal Canadian Signals and the Alberta Government Telephones.

Terry Pin's Tips On

Washington, D.C.

Congress is full of politicians.

They argue. A filibuster is a senator with long hair.

Washington is very bad for elevator boys. Buildings are always instead of up and down. An elevator boy's only hope is a job in the Washington monument.

Cherry trees and the government are in Washington. The government has more branches, but you can tell what the cherry trees are going to do.

It is a sighter's paradise. There are many squirrels in the parks, and if one blue you, take his pos-sult away from him and give it to a pigeon.

Blue lines and marble quarries would suffer without Washington.

It is well worth visiting, even if you have to go through Baltimore.

If it rains and you have no money for a movie, try the Senate Gallery.

It's noisy, but dry.

What To Do

My husband has been asked to be an usher at a very formal wedding which he has accepted.

There are to be four ushers and they are all going to the church together. Now, what am I to do?

Should I go by myself? Must I go formal? The bride is not having a large reception, only the family and wedding party are being invited.

Should I be included or shouldn't I?

I attend the wedding if not invited to the reception? MRS. W. P. P.

Answer—You certainly should be invited to the reception—and your husband no doubt accepted, taking for granted you would be invited, too. A bride never overlooks the husbands and wives of any of the attendants who are married, whether she knows them or not. However, there is no reason why you should not go to the church by yourself, if you really want to. In that event, do not dress formally;

just wear daytime clothes. But if you are invited to the reception, then, of course, dress formally in accord with your husband.

Curious World

—By William Ferguson

Answer: It is impossible to say. A rattlesnake may add three or four inches in one year, for one is added at each shedding of the outer skin layer.

NEXT: A leaf that grows roots when it is plucked.
